
Top 3 Exterior Home Improvement Projects

Contributed by Bennette
Friday, 12 September 2008

Today with all the TV shows and talk about home improvement most homeowners are more in tune with the exterior of their home. Let's face it, the exterior of your home is the first thing people see as they walk or drive down your street. As a Houston exterior home improvement company these are 3 popular remodeling projects we provide for our customers.

- Replacement windows are popular because they're energy efficient and will help save money on your utility bills. A tilted sash makes them very easy to clean, eliminating the need for a ladder with two story houses. Replacement windows drastically reduce the amount of noise in homes that are on busy streets and main highways. Vinyl windows also reduce exterior maintenance because they won't warp or rot like wood.

- Siding is becoming more and more popular with exterior remodeling in Houston because it does great in a hot and humid climate. Siding is resistant to fire, termites and insects that can damage real wood. It is durable, no more rotting or warping and paint adheres to the surface eliminating chipping and peeling.

- Exterior Painting is great inexpensive way to give your home a quick face lift. Most homeowners are accustomed to driving up, pulling directly into their driveway and never really looking at the exterior of their home. Being a painting contractor in Texas, as a courtesy to our customers, we walk the exterior of their home to check for worn or rotten boards. Over half our customers tell us that they were not aware of the exterior condition of their home. So check your home today, because all you may need is a fresh coat of paint and your neighbors will definitely appreciate it.